This book follows the career events of a group of young people hired in 1965 to be Auditors for the Army. They go to Army schools and seminars, they learn on the jobs and then they do whatever it takes to advance ahead of their peers. They encounter normal life events of marriage, birth of children, spousal cheating, divorce, promotions, travel to exotic and less than exotic locations and endure the boredom of hotel and motel rooms as the 4 walls close in on them. Many leave the ranks within the first 5 years and others leave after that. In the end, they saw a lot of interesting things, traveled to many places and they no longer have a place they can call home. They have changed too much. So, what is better, a hum drum job in the home town or an exotic life of a travel job Read and enjoy.

Botswana Police Sergeant Duski Lôcha is the daughter of a Zionist preacher whose sermons berate witch doctors and their ungodly practises. Desperate to find a man she could call her own in a culture where infidelity is the norm and the possibility of forming a monogamous relationship is as unlikely as getting frostbite in the Kalahari, Duski does the unthinkable in order to achieve this goal. With her father's sermons constantly whirling around her head, she seeks the services of a local witch doctor who prescribes her a ritual bath. But when Ali, the constable she later meets and falls in love with after taking the prescribed bath, becomes the third victim of an elusive killer, Duski begins to wonder if this is the work of a wrathful deity. Like the other victims, when Ali's body is discovered, his genitals are missing, but Duski is convinced that the ritual bath she took before meeting him, has something to do with his death—if she hadn't taken the bath, would he still be alive? With neither suspects nor leads and unwilling to let the murder of one of their own go cold, CID begin to take an interest in Duski's whereabouts on the night Ali died. The lack of a credible alibi and the determination to get CID off her back and find her boyfriend's killer leaves Duski with a difficult choice. But can her father's sermons stop her from crossing over to the dark side?

Alan McQueen, aka Mac, was once a star of the global intelligence community, renowned for being the Aussie spook who shot and killed Abu Sabaya, the world's most dangerous terrorist. But that was 2002. Now, during a routine assignment in Indonesia, McQueen discovers that Sabaya is not in fact dead. Instead he's teamed up with rogue CIA veteran Peter Garrison and is armed with a cache of stolen VX nerve agent he's threatening to deploy in a dramatic and deadly manner. Battling to stay one step ahead of Sabaya's hit-men, CIA double-agents and deep corruption within Australian intelligence, Mac must find the stolen VX before it's too late. His mission will take him on a chase through South-East Asia and test all of his considerable courage and ingenuity. Brilliantly written and action-packed, Golden Serpent will enthrall fans of Andy McNab, Tom Clancy, Lee Child and Robert Ludlum. Guaranteed to satisfy even the most seasoned spy-thriller aficionado.
